Retracing Darwin's Voyage (3 January to 10 January 2014) Adventure, Exploration, Photography

Information and Reservation Form

Join us for a unique opportunity to explore the Galapagos with Darwin scholar and MacArthur Fellow Professor Frank Sulloway, and Skeptic magazine editor Michael Shermer. Professor Sulloway will share his unique perspective and research developed as a result of more than a dozen visits to these islands in 40 years. He has published extensively on Darwin's visit to the Galapagos, and has retraced Darwin's route on all four islands that Darwin visited. Professor Sulloway has also conducted research on evolutionary aspects of Darwin's finches. Michael Shermer is author of Why Darwin Matters: The Case Against Intelligent Design (2006), as well as a biography of Alfred Russel Wallace, who codiscovered the theory of natural selection in 1858. With Professor Sulloway, Dr. Shermer has also participated in field research in the Galapagos, documenting Darwin's activities on San Cristóbal, the first of the four islands that Darwin visited in 1835.

EXPLORE a different island in the archipelago each day of the expedition with Professor Sulloway, Dr. Shermer, and one of the National Park's best guides, Juan Tapia. Every evening they will preview the visit and attractions for the following day, including sites visited by Darwin.

Darwin had the Beagle, and our group will be chartering the Beluga. This sleek motor vessel was built in 1996 and was completely refurbished in 2002. Her eight double cabins all have private bathrooms and hot water showers. The vessel includes several amenities to ensure your comfort: A library, a TV area, a restaurant/bar, and a sun deck. Dr. Sulloway has worked extensively with this charter company over the last four decades.
